Veterinary Technology (VETT) prepares students with knowledge and skills necessary to provide general veterinary nursing care and technical assistance in the varied disciplines found in the practice of veterinary medicine and surgery. These include nurse anesthetist, operating room technician, radiology technician, dental hygienist, medical laboratory technician, as well as clinical and practice management. Students that complete the program are qualified to sit for state and national licensing examinations and enter into practice as a licensed veterinary technician. The Veterinary Technology Program has entered into a unique partnership with the Western Veterinary Conference that allows sharing of resources such as facilities, equipment, and educational opportunities to augment the student's learning experience. This partnership also makes available nationally and internationally recognized Doctors of Veterinary Medicine that act as visiting instructors in many disciplines. Essential clinical and laboratory skills must be documented by video recording and submitted digitally or by hard copy for grading review. Alternatively, local students may register for and attend in-class laboratories and Directed Clinical Practice rotations. (If an Associate of Applied Science degree is desired, then documented proof of general education requirements must be submitted to CSN for approval, and completion of an additional semester of Directed Clinical Practice is req
